

The Daily Courant.

Wednesday, September 1. 1703.

From the Bruffels Gazette, dated August 10.

Naples, July 11.

A Few days ago 2 Gallies of Malta arriv'd here, bringing with them a new Galley built at Civita Vecchia; and yesterday they parted from hence for Malta, with the new Galley in a Tow. The Secretary of the French Ambassador at the Ottoman Port, being landed at Brindesi, pass'd through this City on the 9th, and is gone Post to the Court of France: Don Alonso d'Ara-Cell has taken Possession of the Presidentship of the Council Royal, conferr'd upon him by his Majesty. The Prince of Santo Buono waits only for his last Dispatches from the Court of Madrid to set out on his Embassy to the Republick of Venice. The 6 Troops of Horse of the Regiment of Vigliette, are march'd towards Apulia; and all necessary Precautions are taken to secure our Coasts from any Insults of the Enemy: And notwithstanding all is quiet here, the Patrolling of the Infantry in the City, and of the Horse in the Suburbs, is not discontinued. We learn by the last Letters from Sicily, that they are working hard to fortifie Palermo, Melazzo, and other Places of that Kingdom; the old Fortifications being order'd to be repair'd and strengthen'd with new Works: And particularly that at Palermo 3 of the Gates are stop'd up, and the Trees about the Town cut down, that the Place may lye open to the Country and the Port.

From the Paris Gazette, dated August 11.

Rome, July 17. On the 13th a private Gentleman passing accidentally by the Palace of the Imperial Ambassador and that of Cardinal Grimani, which stand at no great distance from each other, and making a stop at a Coffee-House-door, was suspected by some Domesticks both of the Ambassador and of the Cardinal to be a Spy employ'd by the Government, the rather because they observ'd several Sberries follow'd him at some distance. In this Imagination, the Servants of the Ambassador fell upon him, and laid him on so unmercifully with their Sticks and Swords, that they left him on the Ground half dead. The Pope being inform'd of it, order'd a strict Examination to be made into the Matter; in consequence of which Order, 40 Sberries assisted by some Soldiers who keep Guard in that Quarter of the Town went to the Coffee-House which is contiguous to Cardinal Grimani's Palace, seiz'd the Master of the House, his Servant, and some others, and carry'd them off notwithstanding they claim'd the Protection of the Imperial Ministers. The Pope thought fit likewise to signify by his Chamberlain, that he would not give any more Audiences to the Secretary of the Imperial Embassy, who for a long time has attended his Holiness when occasion requir'd, the Ambassador himself not appearing at the Palace, because of some Contest between this Court and that of Vienna; His Holiness has likewise order'd those Persons who shall be discover'd to have committed this Violence to be prosecuted with the utmost Rigour of the Law. The Ambassador has dispatch'd his Secretary to Vienna, to inform his Imperial Majesty of what has pass'd; but the Pope has resolv'd not to send any Courier thither about it.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated Aug. 18.

Vienna, August 4. Count Lamberg the Emperor's Ambassador at Rome, has sent Complaints hither that the Governour of Rome had caus'd some of his Domesticks to be drubb'd by the Sbirries; and that by his order likewise an Officer was seiz'd and carry'd away out of Cardinal Grimani's Quarters, because some of his Excellency's Servants had cudgell'd a French-man who came into his Antichamber as a Spy. This Minister therefore makes pressing Instances to be recall'd; and 'tis thought Cardinal Lamberg will be sent to Rome to relieve him; and that the Bishop of Raab will then be made the Emperor's Chief Commissioner in the Diet of the Empire.

From the Paris Gazette, dated August 11.

Hamburg, July 29. On the 24th of this Month the Abbot Bidal, Envoy Extraordinary of France, parted from hence with the Passport he had demanded. But the Resident of Spain having refus'd that which was sent him from Vienna, and not being able to obtain one in such a Form as he desir'd, (the Imperial Court refusing to give any other Title to his Master than that of Duke of Anjou) a Ship is getting ready here to carry him by Sea to Flanders. A few days ago the Burghers of this City were assembled to consider of the Sum ask'd of them by the Emperor towards carrying on the War; but they broke up without coming to any Resolutions: the Senate however resolv'd to send part of the Sum, to satisfie in some measure the urgent Demands of the Court of Vienna. We have receiv'd Advice that Count Guldenlew, Velt-

Velt-Marshal General of the Troops of the King of Denmark, died on the 14th instant of the Small Pox, at Odenfee in the Island of Fuhnen.

Deale, August 30. Most of the outward bound for Lisbon and Guinea, and some others, sail'd yesterday to the Westward, with the Woolwich and Swan: So likewise did Her Majesty's Ship the Dunwich. Here still remain the Queen's Ships the Dreadnaught, Deptford, Chester, Loo and Fowy. 56 outward bound for Virginia are still here, with the Thomas Frigate, and Adventure for Guinea, Essex for New-England, Virgin for Antegoa, Friends Adventure for Carolina, and the John Brigantine for Lisbon.
